An Eye-Tracking Study of Adult Temperament Differences in College Students

KEY INFORMATION ABOUT THE RESEARCH STUDY

Voluntary consent: The research team needs to be doing you a favour and not for a research study. It is the researcher's professional obligation to ensure that you are not being asked to do anything as a graduate or undergraduate student. You may choose not to take part in the study, and you may choose to stop taking part at any time. You will not be put under any way if you decide not to be in the study, or if you decide to stop taking part. If you choose to stop taking part in the study, the information you have already provided will not be used in any research or analysis.

Alternative is Participatory Participatory is voluntary, and the only alternative is to not participate.

Study Purpose: The purpose of this research is to examine how long-term commitment impacts the likelihood of organizational citizenship, including taking and creating regulation. We are attempting to determine if one factor can increase or decrease the likelihood of taking and creating regulation. Additionally, the research aims to determine whether such a relationship exists, then, it aims to be confirmed using case study analysis.
